

My name is Jim Willmon and I'm running for the Council of Sunbreaker Cove.

My wife, Helena, and I purchased 713 Elk Street in the summer of 2009. We reside in Calgary, have 3 adult daughters, and have recently become grandparents. I can be found in our summer village most weekends throughout the year.

I have been retired since March 2014. I spent most of my career with GLJ Petroleum Consultants where I served in various leadership roles. I volunteered with the Society of Petroleum Engineers, a non-profit organization, in numerous capacities including the Board of Directors of the local Canadian Section, the Board of Directors of the governing international body as Regional Director, and as a governor of the SPE Canada Educational Foundation.

I've been on Council since 2017 in the capacity of Deputy Mayor. This experience has provided me a good understanding of the issues that affect our summer village. I am running for a second term on Council because I have the time and desire to be of service to our community and believe I can continue to contribute in a meaningful way to the welfare and interests of the municipality as a whole.

My goal is to engage with other people to achieve informed, thoughtful decisions and policies that serve the best interests of the community now and for the future. I recently completed online courses offered by the elected officials education program in Municipal Corporate Planning and Finance and Council's Role in Public Engagement because I have a learning mindset and think these are important issues for Council.

I hope you vote to give me the opportunity to continue to serve you.
