Hello, my name is Murray Munro, and I'm proud to be running for one of the three council positions in the upcoming Norglenwold election this July.

I am a recently retired airline pilot with over 40 years of aviation experience. My career began with six years as a bush pilot, flying in many remote Arctic communities across Canada, followed by more than 34 years with Air Canada Jazz where I developed strong leadership, teamwork and crisis management skills. I gained invaluable experience serving as chairman of the Pilot Assistance committee for the Airline Pilot's Association International from 2005 – 2020. In this role, I over saw the day to day operations of a peer-based support program focused on pilot well-being. My responsibilities included coordinating training and managing initiatives related to drug and alcohol recovery, critical incident stress management, aeromedical issues, and overall health and wellness for peer volunteers as well as representing Canadian pilots on a global stage. This position required close collaboration with fellow pilots, industry experts, government officials, and mental health professionals to ensure pilots received the support they needed to maintain both personal and professional wellness.

Norglenwold has always been close to my heart. My family has owned property here since the early 1970s, and I am currently residing here. I grew up in Central Alberta and went to school in Red Deer, spending many of my summers on the lake. Over the past 50 years, I've witnessed a great deal of change in our community, and now that I'm retired, I'd like to give back and help shape its future.

In addition to my aviation career, I've been active in community service. I served on the Board of Directors for Kompany Dance, a Red Deer-based non-profit that provided paid performance opportunities for graduates of Red Deer College's dance and theatre programs.

I also served for several years on the Strata 514 Council, a 50-unit condominium board, including time as both councilor and president. These experiences have given me a strong foundation in leadership, governance, and collaboration—skills I hope to bring to Norglenwold Council.
